Fresh on the Menu Restaurants Selected Southern Living's Readers' Choice

Hugh Weathers, Commissioner of Agriculture, is pleased to announce that four Fresh on the Menu restaurants have been designated by Southern Living magazine as their Readers' Choice. Magnolia's Restaurant, Peninsula Grill, High Cotton Maverick Bar & Grill, and 82 Queen all in Charleston were featured winners in the January 2009 edition of Southern Living magazine.

More than 47,000 ballots were cast in the competition. Competing with other southern restaurants, the Fresh on the Menu dining establishments were chosen by readers who told the editors the best places to eat, shop, and stay all across the region.

Magnolia's Restaurant in Charleston was named in the top 10 restaurants for the Southern Favorite category. Magnolia's was also one of the top 10 restaurants in the Splurge Worthy category which also included Peninsula Grill, High Cotton Maverick Bar & Grill and 82 Queen all in Charleston.

Fresh on the Menu, the second phase of the Certified SC program, was launched in February 2008 by the South Carolina Department of Agriculture. Commissioner Weathers said, "Fresh on the Menu and all phases of the Certified South Carolina campaign have been established with one main objective – to increase the per capita income of rural South Carolinians through the generation of agricultural commerce. By providing consumers with the ability to easily identify, find, and buy South Carolina products, we are meeting that goal."

Phase II of the SC Waste Pesticide Recovery continues in the Upstate

The South Carolina Waste Pesticide Recovery Program has now moved into the Upstate. Old, outdated, unusable or unwanted pesticides will be collected from farmers, foresters, nurserymen, and landowners from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday, February 10 and 12, and from 9 a.m. to noon on Wednesday, February 11.

Phase I of our collection program began with selected sites in the lower part of the state. "We are now moving to the Newberry and Chester areas of the state," said Commissioner Hugh Weathers. A fully permitted waste collection vendor is removing these pesticides from farms and disposing them in a safe and proper manner. There is no charge for this service and registration is not required. All information associated with this program is confidential.

SC Ag Council to Focus on Land Management

The quarterly meeting of the South Carolina Ag Council is scheduled to be held on Thursday, February 12, 2009 at the SC Farm Bureau Office, 724 Knox Abbott Drive, Cayce. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. and the program at 10:00 a.m. followed by a catered lunch.

The meeting topic will be "Land Management." Speakers and subjects to be covered will be: Dr. Johnny Staples, Ph.D., General Manager of NaturChem, "Controlling Vegetation throughout the Southeast;" Beth Crocker - General Counsel, SC Department of Agriculture, "General Liability Issues for Landowners;" Linda Floyd - Conservation Program Specialist, Farm Service Agency (FSA), "Land Management Practices Available to Landowners through CRP;" and Rhonda Brandt - Director of the South Carolina Field Office, USDA National Agricultural Statistics Service, "Results of the 2007 Agriculture Census". After the presentation, there will be a question/answer session.

Agriculture - Competing to Make SC Super healthy

Super Bowl Weekend is always one of the biggest days of the year in sports-good economy or bad. It's also the second-largest U.S. food consumption day, following Thanksgiving. Food is what we're all about at the Department of Agriculture, but we're also focused on a healthy South Carolina.

The competitiveness between the Steelers and the Cardinals at Raymond James Stadium is no match for the battle our state is in for staying healthy. Using a pro football analogy, South Carolina didn't even make the playoffs in health statistics. We rank 2nd highest of the 50 states in diagnosed diabetes, 5th highest in adult obesity, 6th highest in childhood obesity, and heart disease is the leading cause of death in our state. Those are statistics we can literally live without!

Now with Valentine's Day right around the corner, February should be a month that's all about the heart. As such, it makes good sense to recognize February as American Heart Month. Established by the American Heart Association, Heart Month promotes awareness of heart disease, the associated risks, causes, and the ways to reduce the chance of developing this deadly illness. The American Heart Association is one of the 23 non-profit organizations of Community Health Charities (CSC-SC) of which I am honored to serve as chairman this year.

Clemson Extension to Offer Commercial Turf School

Clemson’s 2009 Turf School is a one-day course focusing on the technical challenges of maintaining high quality turfgrass. This program is conducted by Clemson scientists specifically for professionals who work in a variety of turfgrass environments. If you manage grounds, lawns, recreational parks, sports fields, or for sod production, this workshop is for you! Pesticide Recertification Credits will be awarded.

The course will concentrate on identifying and implementing best management practices for the following topics: water quality, insect pests, diseases, weeds, and fertility. Clemson University scientists are fine-tuning effective management techniques through scientific trails in order to minimize economic and environmental costs while meeting federal and state guidelines and regulations. Additionally, the course offers new, more effective management approaches to current issues and potential problems.

The Turf School will be held in Greenville on Wednesday, February 18 from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the University Center at McAlister Square. Registration is $50 per person, which includes lunch. For more information or to register contact Greenville County Extension Office at 864-232-4431.

Private Applicator Training & Testing Program

A Private Applicator Training and Testing program will be held at the Sumter County Library on Wednesday, February 18. This is the initial certification program for individuals who need to obtain the license to purchase and use restricted-use pesticides for the production and sale of an agricultural commodity produced on farms, forests, greenhouses, or nurseries in South Carolina. Regulations do not permit taking the test without taking the training.

This license is not appropriate for homeowners or others who are not producing an agricultural commodity. It is also not appropriate for commercial applicators.

Pre-registration for this program is required before the close of business on February 16, 2009 so that the necessary course materials can be prepared. There will be no on-site registration. The registration fee is $50. The class will begin promptly at 10 a.m. and testing will conclude around 6 p.m. Lunch is on-your-own. Morning and afternoon refreshments will be provided. Please call us at 803-773-5561 for more information and to register.

USDA to Host State Technical Committee Meeting

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) will conduct a State Technical Committee (STC) meeting on Thursday, February 19, at the Farm Bureau Building in Cayce, at 724 Knox Abbott Drive.

The meeting is open to the public and will begin at 10 a.m. Chaired by NRCS State Conservationist Niles Glasgow, the STC provides recommendations on a number of issues concerning conservation programs, and ensures that Civil Rights requirements in Program Delivery are met.

Although the State Technical Committee has no implementation or enforcement authority, USDA gives strong consideration to the Committee's recommendations. Technical Committees are composed of individuals and groups who represent a diverse group with interests in a variety of natural resource sciences and occupations. The SC State Technical Committee meets on an as-needed basis.

This meeting will focus on the interim-final rules for conservation provisions in the 2008 Farm Bill. The new provisions build on the conservation gains made by landowners over the past decade, and simplify existing programs and create new programs to address high priority resource concerns in South Carolina. All attendees are asked to review the interim-final rules available at www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/farmbill/2008/interim-rules.html prior to attending the meeting.

Please confirm attendance no later than February 17th by calling 803-765-5682, or email angela.yarborough@sc.usda.gov

Participating chefs agree to prepare menus that include at least 25% Certified South Carolina Grown foods and products in season and feature Certified SC’s Fresh on the Menu brand. These chefs recognize the value in supporting local for not only their bottom lines, but also for the difference South Carolina local products and produce make on the taste of food. After all, “Nothing’s Fresher. Nothing’s Finer.”

Commissioner Weathers said, “Fresh on the Menu is a commitment to provide South Carolina citizens the freshest products and produce from some of the nation's best restaurants. This program will work to use our greatest resources to help to ensure that South Carolinians can act progressively and think competitively in the global economy of our future.” The South Carolina Department of Agriculture challenges all South Carolinians to support, ask for and to remember to "Buy local." It's to dine for.

Southern Living magazine is published monthly and has a circulation of nearly 2.5 million. To vote for the 2009 Readers Choice Awards, visit www.southernliving.com.

The winning Fresh on the Menu restaurants are:

- 82 Queen - Johnny Williams, General Manager 82 Queen Street, Charleston, SC, 843-723-7591
- High Cotton Maverick Bar & Grill - Anthony Gray, Chef 199 East Bay St., Charleston, SC, 843-724-3815

All agricultural pesticides, labeled or not, may be brought to one of the sites on the dates designated.

Pesticides include insecticides, herbicides, nematocides, fungicides and other similar products used in commercial agricultural production. No fertilizers, household chemicals, compressed cylinders or empty containers will be accepted.

Participants are urged to bring all materials to the site in the safest manner possible. Enclose all loose materials or leaking containers in plastic bags. If special circumstances exist that require pickup on site, contact Larry Boyleston, Assistant Commissioner, SC Department of Agriculture, 803-734-2191, lboylest@scda.sc.gov to make arrangements.

The program also includes an education component to provide information on proper management, handling and use of pesticides.

Make SC Super healthy

I can't think of a more appropriate tie to agriculture than supporting the health and well-being of our people.

At the Department of Agriculture we have some initiatives underway to help in the effort to keep South Carolina healthy. We work with Healthy Carolina at USC to hold a community farmers market each month for students, educators, and anyone who lives and works in the area. It's sort of our Fresh on the Campus focus of the Certified SC program. Folks from Clemson have visited with us about a market for their campus. We also are involved in the "Eat Smart...It's in the Garden" school gardens program. The program initiated by Eat Smart, Move More...SC along with the Department, supports the effort to provide children with a gardening experience that instills good eating habits at an early age, provides physical activity, and helps them develop a greater appreciation for the diversity of food that is grown in South Carolina. Try to get to them early, before they 'know it all' by junior high school.

Also, last year with a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, we partnered with the SC Department of Education in a pilot program to purchase locally grown fruits and vegetables for the Fresh Fruits and Vegetables School Program. The idea was to give students the opportunity to grab fresh fruits and vegetables snacks throughout the school day - growing minds and farms at the same time. A permanent farm-to-school program would be a positive step to better health for our children. We see this initiative as a platform to launch a more inclusive farm-to-school program in South Carolina. There is a bill going through the Legislature that speaks to doing just that.

Across the United States, chronic diseases such as cancer, heart disease, diabetes and asthma account for more than 75 cents of every health care dollar spent in the nation. More than 1.5 million people (nearly one-third of the population of South Carolina) suffer from some kind of chronic disease, including heart disease, adding up to a combined cost of almost $11 billion. For 2007, the U.S. spent $2.26 trillion on health care. That's a whopping $7,439 per person.

In South Carolina, more than 60% of our adults are overweight or obese. I really don't know if this is a polite way of saying 'fat', or maybe it's a category that is just shy of actually being fat. Regardless, being overweight contributes to 32% of heart disease deaths each year. And it's not just men! February 6 is the national Wear Red Day, the day when Americans will wear red to show their support for women's heart disease awareness. The truth is that heart disease doesn't care what you wear. It's the number one killer of women. For South Carolina, it's the number one killer for both women and men. All this reminds me I need to get on the treadmill more often.

One thing about watching the Super Bowl or any athletic event down to a high school basketball or wrestling match, you see that athletes prepare themselves physically to compete. Let's think about February as a time to help prepare ourselves to compete for a healthier lifestyle. Help South Carolina make the playoffs in the competition for better health statistics.

Hugh E. Weathers, Commissioner

Blythewood native named South Carolina Watermelon Queen

Summers Slaton, a 21-year-old Blythewood native, was crowned as the South Carolina Watermelon Queen on Saturday, January 17 in Columbia. The competition was held in conjunction with the Watermelon Growers Association meeting January 16-17.

Commissioner Hugh E. Weathers with South Carolina Watermelon Queen Summers Slaton

Summers is the daughter of Gordon and Denise Slaton of Blythewood and is a student at Winthrop University where she is majoring in Early Childhood Education.

"I'm so excited and still shocked to be The South Carolina Watermelon queen, but I'm ready to get to work because I know how much the association expects from me and I want to make the association and all the growers very proud," Slaton said of winning.

As South Carolina Watermelon Queen Slaton will stay busy traveling throughout the state during the year to festivals, speaking engagements, and media interviews promoting watermelons. She will also travel to supermarkets across the state to promote the nutritional benefits of watermelon. Next year she will compete for the national title in Dallas, Texas.

In addition to being on the Dean's List at Winthrop, she is also very active outside of the classroom. Slaton is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, organizes and leads the annual school supply drive for Sistercare, and volunteers at various elementary schools in the Rock Hill area.

Slaton received a $750 scholarship from the South Carolina Watermelon Association, and a $500 scholarship from International Paper. Slaton said after graduation she plans on teaching at an elementary school in South Carolina and pursuing her Masters Degree.

National FFA scholarship application deadline

Students interested in applying for FFA scholarships must have their applications postmarked by February 17, 2009, to be eligible for consideration.

John W. Parris, state director of public affairs with the SC FFA organization, said this year the National FFA Foundation will award more than $2 million in college scholarships to FFA members. Detailed information about the scholarships, including viewing the guide book and application, is available at www.ffa.org/scholarships.

Scholarships will be awarded to FFA members who are seniors in high school or, in some cases, college freshmen. The scholarships are awarded for a wide variety of experiences, career goals or higher education plans and may be used at colleges, universities or other post-secondary schools. They are sponsored by numerous agricultural businesses and individuals as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

"South Carolina FFA members are encouraged to contact the Agricultural Education instructor/FFA advisor in their high school for assistance in applying for one of the many scholarships," Parris said.

The major factors used in selecting recipients of these scholarships include: (1) Academic Achievement-Grade Point Average, ACT or SAT score and class rank; (2) Leadership in the FFA and Community; and (3) Supervised Agricultural Experience Program.

2009 SC Farmers Market Nutrition Program Farmer Training

The 2009 SC Farmers Market Nutrition Program (SC FMNP) farmer training sessions have been scheduled for the months of February and March in twelve locations throughout the state. The training sessions for 2009 will begin on February 12th and run through March 31st. The locations, dates and times for each session and the registration form are available at www.agriculture.sc.gov.

The USDA requires training for all farmers who wish to be authorized to participate in the South Carolina Farmers Market Nutrition Program. DUE TO REGULATORY CHANGES, ALL FARMERS WHO PLAN TO ACCEPT SCFMNP CHECKS MUST ATTEND A TRAINING SESSION THIS YEAR.

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture is responsible for authorizing individual farmers to participate in the SC FMNP. Only farmers authorized by the state agency may accept and redeem SC FMNP coupons. Individuals, who exclusively sell produce grown by someone else, such as wholesale distributors, cannot be authorized to participate in the FMNP.

The same information will be presented at each session, so farmers may attend the one that is most convenient. Farmers must complete and return the form at least two weeks prior to the session requested.

Participants will be provided updated information from the 2009 Farmer Training Guide and will be expected to complete an application/agreement that includes a crop plan for the year. Farmers should be prepared with any questions regarding the SC FMNP.

Market News Reports Viewed 56 Million Times in 2008

According to the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service (USDA AMS), during the past fiscal year Livestock, Grain and Fruit & Vegetable Market News released approximately 125,000 reports which were viewed over 56 million times through the Internet. Through a Federal-State Cooperative Agreement, the USDA-SCDA Market News Service is doing its part to contribute to these reports, providing the agricultural industry with accurate and unbiased marketing information.

The reports which cover current conditions relating to the trade of livestock, meat, wool, grain, feedstuffs, fruits and vegetables are designed to promote orderly marketing and enhance competition.

The SCDA-Market News Web site provides:

- Links to audio recordings, updated daily, with the latest prices from livestock auctions, the futures market, vegetable prices from the Columbia State Farmers Market, and quotes from local grain elevators
- The most recent livestock, fruit and vegetable and grain reports published by our Market News Reporters, which include price trends and other valuable information to buyers and sellers
- The latest version of the weekly Fruit & Vegetable and Livestock newsletter
- A list of in-state produce currently available at the Columbia State Farmer's Market
- Links to other helpful websites including the Agricultural Marketing Service – Market News, Chicago Mercantile Exchange, and the Livestock and Fruit & Vegetable Market News homepages

South Carolina Market News reporters can also customize reports to meet specific needs using the USDA Portal application. This tool gives buyers and sellers the ability to research archived data from over five years of information and develop very detailed reports for the specific product in which they are interested.

The Market News Service is dedicated to providing quality customer service and timely, unbiased information to its customers. In today's economic climate, these services are more important than ever to help ensure that all market participants have a clear view of the current conditions and are able to make well-informed decisions about buying and selling agricultural products.

Visit www.agriculture.sc.gov for more information or reach Market News reporters directly by calling 803-737-4491 for Livestock and 803-737-4497 for Fruit & Vegetable.
